The foundation Mère Sofia based in Lausanne is a welfare organization which helps the most impoverished. They have different departments that aid people in need. The volunteer will work mainly at the soup kitchen and may also support the itinerant social service.

About 30 co-workers, 3 interns and 220 volunteers work for the foundation Mère Sofia.

The EVS volunteer will have the opportunity to have an insight in one or two of these departments during his-her EVS, depending of his-her interest and French knowledge.

The EVS volunteer will mainly work at the soup kitchen. In addition to providing food assistance for free every single day of the year, the welfare organization's goal is to welcome each person without discrimination and allow a social contact with a group.

At the soup kitchen, the tasks of the volunteer will be

- Preparation of the meals and help in the kitchen
- Collaboration with voluntary co-workers
- Distribution of the meals
- Logistical help and maintenance work
- Social support during the evening.

In this environment of work, the volunteer should be empathic and open minded. She-he should not be afraid to become invested in the lives of the impoverished people taking part in the soup kitchen. Moreover, the volunteer should be able to coordinate a group and to collaborate with the team.
